Dogs are related to wolves—have you ever heard a dog howl with a fire siren? People and dogs have been friends for more than 12,000 years! Dogs come in many shapes and sizes, but it doesn’t matter what they look like—a mixed-breed dog from the animal shelter can be smarter and sweeter than a purebred pooch. Dogs need lots of fresh water, good food, shelter, and attention. Have you played with your dog today?
Spaying (for female pets) and neutering (for male pets) are safe, standard surgeries that prevent animals from breeding.

Puppies and kittens are clearly adorable, but unplanned litters result in millions of cats, dogs and rabbits being euthanized or living miserable lives as strays. You can help end the animal overpopulation tragedy with one small, but significant action – have your companion animals sterilized with a routine and affordable surgery.

Health and Behavioral Benefits in Spaying or Neutering your pet

- Eliminate messy heat cycles and resulting male attraction
- Reduce risk of spraying and marking
- Decrease desire to roam (with resulting likelihood of being in fights or auto accidents)
- Reduce risk of mammary tumors, ovarian and/or uterine cancer is reduced or eliminated, (females)
- Eliminate risk of testicular cancer and decreases incidence of prostate disease (males)
- Decrease aggressive behavior, including dog bites
- Help dogs and cats live longer, healthier lives

Benefits for People from Spaying and Neutering Community Pets

- Reduce tax dollars needed to rescue, shelter and care for stray, abandoned and unwanted pets
- Reduce danger of transmittable diseases (including rabies), animal bites and attacks
- Reduce property and livestock damage caused by roaming strays
- Reduce the environmental hazard of animal waste

It's the Law!

Santa Cruz County has a mandatory spay/neuter law. Dogs and cats over the age of six months that reside in Santa Cruz County must be spayed or neutered.
For thousands of years people have loved the company of cats. Gentle petting, a warm lap, a comfortable warm bed, or a sunny window can make cats purr and purr. Cats like to run after crumpled-up paper balls and “dancing” string. If your family includes cats, give them lots of love and attention, and keep them safe indoors.

Cows are lovely, gentle animals. But to keep making milk and cream, they have to keep on having baby calves. Right after they are born, these baby calves are taken from the mother cows and sent to calf factories to be fattened up for meat. It makes the mother cows very sad. Help cows and calves by drinking fruit juice instead of milk and eating Tofutti instead of ice cream.

In their natural forest homes, pigs use their strong snouts like shovels to dig for food. They cool off in mud on hot days. Pigs are as smart as dogs, but on "factory farms," they are locked indoors in metal stalls that keep them from moving.

DID YOU KNOW?

Pigs make muddy "wallows" to keep them from sunburning in the summer.

Around or playing. Instead of eating bacon, ham, or sausage, which come from pigs, try yummy veggie dogs!

Parrots love to be with other parrots. They have very loud voices, so they can call to each other through the trees. Parrots belong in the jungles, free to fly and be with lots and lots of other parrots, not in cages. Speak up for parrots. Tell people who have parrots to give them lots of attention and space to fly, explore, and exercise. But, make sure all doors and windows are shut first. Birds not used to being outside could get hurt if they escaped.

Did you know that chimpanzees can use sticks and rocks like spoons and hammers, and they can find plant medicines in the jungle? Some people put chimpanzees in cages, in laboratories, or train them to "act" in shows, or even keep them as "pets," but chimpanzees want to live free. Look in your library for a book about how chimpanzee families take care of one another.

Just like us, a chicken or turkey can be shy or friendly or scared or curious. Each one is special. And like kids, they love to run around outside and be with friends. Outside they can feel the sun and take dust baths and peck the ground for seeds.

DID YOU KNOW?

Wild turkeys can fly up to 55 miles per hour.

Mother chickens talk to their babies when they are still in the eggs.

Nowadays most chickens and turkeys never get to do these things. They live crowded together inside meat and egg factories. Instead of chicken or turkey or eggs, eat spaghetti or peanut butter sandwiches.

Soft, fuzzy bunnies make their homes by digging big tunnels under the ground. They come out at the end of the day to eat grass and clover. Just like us, bunnies have fun playing tag and chase. But some companies test shampoo by dripping it into rabbits’ eyes. Many other companies don’t do this.

Fishes live in lakes, streams, and the seas. Some are long and brown, others are small and colorful. They use their lips to gather food and build their underwater homes. It sure hurts them when people catch them on sharp hooks! Fishes swim for miles every day and get bored when they are put in tanks (even big tanks!). The easiest way to help shy fishes is not to bother them or catch them. We can learn lots about them by reading books.

Rats and mice are curious, friendly little animals whose natural home is in fields and woods. They scurry around, nibbling on berries and building nests for their babies. When people cut down too many trees, rats and mice have no place to go. Sometimes they slip through small holes in houses and find warmth and food inside. But they don't hurt people, and if they are taken outside, they'll find another place to live.
